

What's The Difference?

Patio Cover

100 ft² to 1200 ft²

Custom designed and built for your home and property.

Patio covers are attached to the exterior wall of a home, as opposed to a free-standing pergola. A well-designed patio cover provides coverage and protection from the sun, rain, and other weather elements. Patio covers are designed to extend the home's living area at a reasonable cost. They are built to blend with the home's architecture for a seamless, functional addition to the property.

Pergola

Custom designed and built for your home and property.

Pergolas are open-frame outdoor structures typically supported at least by 4 posts or legs. Great for use in gardens and pool areas, creating an outdoor living space that is also a decorative feature of your property. The open design of a pergola is a stylish way to create a shaded area without blocking your view.
